THIS PHOTO, showing a poor little victim of a tornado in Atlanta, Ga., standing in the wreckage of his home, clutching his dolly, won second prize for spot news shots in the annual White House press photographers' contest held in Washington.

AN INFINITESIMAL fraction of a second was all that was needed for this high-speed camera to catch this action shot of a tense moment in a football match, as interceptor and catcher of a pass vie with one another. It won the first prize.

THIS PHOTOGRAPH earned third prize in the "personalities class" in the White House contest, for its skilful portrayal of types which the photographer's discerning eye caught as likely subjects at a free Christmas dinner in a gospel mission.

WITH THAT WINNING smile and ready, warm handshake, the cameraman has caught President Roosevelt in a characteristic pose, riding in his open car, which has drawn up to an acquaintance of his. One of the keys to his popularity is that he treats all alike.

THIS PHOTO took second prize in the sports class. The horse has easily cleared the barrier, but the horsewoman rather painfully has not, since, judging from the agonized look on her face, she is not merely trying the stunt of dismounting during the jump.

"SEZ WHO?" snorts this big fellow to his little chum, as the latter has hazarded a cantraversal remark. "Okay, okay, maybe I'm wrong but you don't need to get tough about it," apologizes his pint-sized playmate. They met at a dog shaw.

"BACKFIELD IN MOTION," is the title of this phata of sham battle, which won first prize in the spot news class, as well as President Roosevelt's award of the "grand prize winner." The photographer is press cameraman Robert Woodsum.

The Star Weekly, Toronto, January 6, 1945

FIRST PRIZE in the "personalities class" was awarded to this study by Max Desfor, a youthful version of Rodin's "Thinker." It is entitled "The Dreamer."

WOMEN, too, were among the prize winners. Roberta Barrett calls this "Spring Furlough." The servicemen and their girl gaze at the Jefferson Memorial.

EDDIE O'HAIRE caught a congressman laying down something to Henry Kaiser, famous builder of Liberty ships, and appropriately calls it, "Naw Listen, Henry."

SCENES IN RHINELAND ATTACK AND COUNTER-ATTACK

THERE'S EVIDENTLY exaggeration in reports that German troops are feeble and scrawny. This fellow, a pilot shot down in formation by a U.S. anti-aircraft gun, is husky enough. There must be others like him to judge from strong counter-attacks.

ROAD BLOCKS like this in a Holland town were child's play to a Canadian engineering unit. It wasn't long before these steel beams were tossed aside and the Canadian trucks and tanks were pouring through. Note the neat Dutch pavement.

THIS TRIO find that a steel helmet makes an ideal kettle. Ptes. Roy Saunders, Nanaimo; Don Angus, Penticton; Harold Bailey, Grand Forks, B.C., make tea.

CALIFORNIA and Holland are hobnobbing here on a jeep. A Pacific coast paratrooper chats with these two Dutch children, both of whom wear wooden shoes.

THERE'S COMEDY as well as tragedy even in war, but that sign is not all jest. Spr. Bert Stenhouse, Toronto, and Sergt. Gordon Petty, Galt, are Berlin-bound.

EMERGING from this smoke screen is this Allied jeep. Smoke screens have played a wonderful part in this war, acting as protection for troops and towns alike. After the war, by slight adaption, smoke-laying airplanes will combat pestilence.

THESE MEN of the United States 9th Air Force (ordnance) built this baby tank from German, French and American parts, and it does everything with ease.

FRENCH CIVILIANS here make their slow way over the rubble and debris during the evacuation of St. Avold, France. Immediately behind the two women, one helping the other, a bulldozer is smashing its way through to clear the streets.

IT LOOKS LIKE a row of houses with a store in the centre. Actually it is part of a German hangar and is camouflaged. Doors open on the right of the "JN."

"SLURPING" along ankle-deep is this Allied soldier, who is moving his clothing and equipment from an inundated house in Holland to some drier place of refuge. His companions, with their feet soaking, look on in quiet amusement at his efforts.

MUD-SOAKED German prisoners looking very glum and discontent at the photographer as they pose after being captured by the Americans in Italy.

NOVA SCOTIA'S SALT MINE IS LARGEST IN EMPIRE

SCALING SALT MOUNTAINS 600 feet below sea level in the Empire's greatest salt mine at Malagash, N.S., gives workers all the thrills of "Alpinists." The salt deposit, 27,000,000 years old, is almost pure.

SEEKING WATER, in 1911, Herb. Wilson was helping a farmer drill a well when salt was discovered. Pictured in working togs, he still works at the mine as a shift boss. Rock salt is used to melt ice.

WATER-SPRAY to make brine has formed this river within the mine. Miners use boats to reach sections of the workings. This man is chipping off samples of the salt ore. Canada's pre-war rock salt was imported, but an almost inexhaustible supply has been found in this deposit, which is 100 miles long and 400 miles wide. In some sections precipitous walls tower 100 feet above the mine's floor.

UNUSUAL 1944 PHOTOS

CRIPPLED children like this pathetic Naples boy, who leans on his friend for support, are a sight not uncommon in Europe wherever there's street fighting.

ALL WRITERS on etiquette will admit that is no way for a gentleman to treat a lady, but a picket in Chicago makes this gesture to a woman strike-breaker.

A SIX-YEAR-OLD Indiana boy, Ronnie Bell, gave this imitation of a prize English bulldog which evidently did not feel insulted but took it good-naturedly.

AS THE ALLIES entered Paris, snipers fired on the welcoming crowds massed in the Place de la Concorde and created this scene of confusion. It can vie in vividness with any of the action scenes that have come from the actual fighting fronts.

You can feel "on top of the world," even if you overindulge. Just take Phillips' when you suffer from stomach distress, heartburn, gas or restless nights caused by excess stomach acidity. It works this double wonder overnight:

FIRST—alkalizes stomach acids—sweetens your stomach almost instantly. SECOND—acts as a gentle, yet effective laxative.

Be sure to ask for genuine Phillips', not any milk of magnesia. For 60 years doctors have acknowledged Phillips' as an ideal laxative-antacid.

ALLIES PRY OPEN THE BURMA ROAD LIFE-LINE

SCOOPING the earth into their baskets and carrying it away on foot, thousands of coolies like those ABOVE are engaged in building fortifications around a town in the Burma Road sector. The city protects the Jap-sought Canton-Hankow railway.

RELAXING in a bamboo stretcher, this Chinese soldier gets his arm wound treated at an emergency dressing station set up on a road near the battlefield. In China the flow of materials by air routes, including medical supplies, is increasing.

A U.S. JEEP, driven by a G.I., stops under a jutting ledge of rock at the Burma Road's lowest elevation (2,960 feet), where it is cut out of the mountainside.

THESE JAP prisoners play baseball in a prison camp. With sportsmanship so foreign to their natures, the losers will doubtless be expected to commit hara-kiri.

CHINESE REFUGEE children, returned to their home town, Tengchung, recaptured by Chinese troops from the Japs, get their rations of rice from this soldier.

BOX CARS, the rods, the locomotive's fender, and every other inch of available space will be used on this typical train about to carry Chinese civilians from an area upon which the brutal Japs are descending. They flee from certain torture.

WHILE THE JAP juggernaut of war rolls over their beloved country, crushing and butchering everything in its path, these simple Chinese farmers harvest their wheat in the fields with their primitive implements, before planting the vital rice crops.

IN THE SUN-BAKED fields of this Chinese village, the women, alongside of their husbands and sons, bend their backs to the back-breaking chore of threshing.

IN FULL ATTIRE, this Chinese soldier receives his training in India under U.S. instructors on anti-gas squad tactics and decontamination technique. In him is well illustrated the real meaning of a united Allied effort against the Axis. With an axe to grind, he and his compatriots speedily learn.

LAXATIVES? I was always taking them until I learned about Lemon and Water

JUICE OF ONE LEMON

IN GLASS OF WATER

FIRST THING ON ARISING

Assures normal regularity for most people. And it's good for you!

If you are troubled with sluggishness, and want to avoid constipation without resorting to harsh laxatives, try this health drink yourself—lemon and water, first thing on arising.

Lemons are among the richest sources of vitamin C, and supply useful amounts of B₁, too. They alkalinize—aid digestion. Lemon and water has a refreshing tang, too—clears the mouth, wakes you up, starts you going.

If your system needs a regulator, try this morning health drink ten days. Juice of one lemon in a glass of water, first thing on arising. It's good for you!

Keep regular the Healthful way!

Enterprise... AND THE CHALLENGE OF TOMORROW

Those early Canadian pioneers whose deeds and names live on, had, despite varying origins and backgrounds and education, one thing in common—Enterprise—the greatest force for progress ever known.

Enterprise discovered and explored Canada, developed and utilized her resources, built her cities and populated her domain.

Enterprise, and its attendant virtues, faith, vision, and determination, prompted Robert McLaughlin to launch a carriage works in 1869—years later, inspired his sons to convert the thriving carriage shop into automobile production, into General Motors of Canada.

Enterprise enabled General Motors to become, in peace, producer of over a quarter of a million civilian cars and trucks—in war, a mighty arsenal forging front-line weapons for a fighting people.

And enterprise—daring, individual, independent—is still the key to prosperity—the force that will best serve Canada in the years that lie ahead.

To meet the challenge of tomorrow, the enterprise and initiative already demonstrated by General Motors will create better, safer transportation; link communities more closely together; provide faster, easier distribution of goods. And the enterprise and initiative, already demonstrated by Canadians as a whole, will ensure this nation and her people a rich and splendid future, worthy of a rich and splendid heritage.

MORE AND BETTER THINGS FOR MORE PEOPLE

U.S. NAVY ACTIVITIES IN PEACEFUL PACIFIC AREAS

ON THE DECK of a U.S. transport in Far East waters, orphaned Polish children being transferred to a new home, gather for a religious service. Their wanderings led them to Bombay, their point of departure for a destination that is not given.

ON THEIR WAY from New Zealand, these future citizens of the U.S. are shown on one of the Pacific ocean's tranquil days. Their fathers are members of the navy and marine corps and their mothers, without exception, are all New Zealand girls.

BURIAL AT SEA is an impressive ceremony, and the camera has caught the dramatic last moment when the flag-draped casket was committed to the deep. This was on a coast guard-manned transport taking wounded home from war in Burma.

NAVY FLIERS are well looked after when recuperating. This spacious divan, which gives a tired aviator plenty of room to roll, is in a New Zealand rest home.

THIS TILED BATH is one of the luxuries in the rest home run for the fliers by the Red Cross in Honolulu. For $2.50 a day they have country club luxury.

THE WAR-WEARY fliers are lulled by dance music as well as Waikiki's Pacific surf. This grass-skirted artiste is one of Hawaii's most famous hula dancers.

THE CAMERA RECORDS WAR'S HEROISM AND TRAGEDY

AFTER TWO YEARS, the story of this U-boat victim can now be told. She was a 20,000-ton ship, the Viceroy of India. Above, she's starting her death roll.

THE DOOMED LINER goes down by the stern and one funnel is already under water. Luckily, the passengers were in life-boats, which avoided the suction.

IT'S THE END of the pride of the P. and O. line. She has begun her death plunge and cameras are clicking on the decks of the rescue ship which is standing by.

THIS V.C. WINNER, C.S.M. Peter Harold Wright of the Coldstream Guards, is shown with his fiancée outside the palace after he had received the decoration.

CROWDS outside Buckingham Palace watching heroes returning from an investiture, were amused when the little daughter of a Bermuda flight lieutenant, who received the Distinguished Flying Cross, immediately put it into her mouth and used it as a teething ring. Her mother had brought her in her carriage. Crowds always gather outside the palace at these times.

THERE ARE EIGHT Strank brothers in the armed services, and Pete, the last to join, ticks them off. Their very proud parents live in Rosburn, Manitoba.

HOLLYWOOD'S "MISS BATHING SUIT" IN FIVE POSES

JO-CARROLL Dennison, 20th Century-Fox star and the most famous bathing suit girl in all Hollywood, exhibits items from her extensive swim wardrobe.

HER SUITS are for use and not merely show. Here she takes off her clogs to dive into the tank in a costume of rayon moire with a coin-dot pattern.

THAT FRINGE on the bottom of the bodice and on the sides of the shorts give to this swim creation a frontier cowgirl effect. It's an "inland" suit.

SHE'S ALL SET for a back roll off that springboard. She needs technicolor to do her justice, for her streamlined swim suit is a vivid shade of red.

THIS SUIT SIREN is famous for her ability to wear with distinction any creation the manufacturers send. She's certainly attractive in this one!

INTRODUCING "Miss Bathing Suit" of Hollywood in five very engaging poses which we think easily vindicate her pretentious title. She is Jo-Carroll Dennison, and after she won the much-coveted title in the film community, which is never exactly wanting in bathing suit beauties, she was deluged with bathing suits from the various manufacturing firms, so that she soon accumulated a terrific swimming wardrobe.

DALHOUSIE'S PHOTOGENIC CO-EDS

NOVA SCOTIA'S famous Dalhousie University presents proof that it can hold its own with any other institute of higher learning in beauty queens as well as feminine scholarship. Freshette Marion Withrow, Springhill, N.S., is a skilful fencer.

THE WIDE RANGE of co-ed activities in Dalhousie includes archery, and here, in the lee of the target, is one of its many fair archers, a sophomore science student, Josephine Robertson of Bridgewater, N.S. She's stringing her bow during practice.

NOT in the least camera shy is the glee club's pretty candidate for Dalhousie's beauty crown. She is Barbara White, and comes from Sussex in the rival province of New Brunswick. Her voice is just as colorful as her flowered skirt. If science does not detain her in graduate days in the laboratory, she may have a concert future like that of Halifax's musical sensation, Portia White. In the "bluenose" maritime provinces, it has long been known that a fish diet produces brains. These co-ed photos indicate that it produces beauty, too. At present there's a considerable vogue for campus girls as pin-up girls, and Dalhousie has a large supply.

MAKING OF MANNEQUINS

FIRST STEP in mannequin making is taken in the artist's studio, where Taranto's Don Stewart captures the model's attitude in his clay sculpturing.

THIS WORKER produces the first rough papier mache cast from the vast variety of master moulds. These moulds exhibit every size and conceivable attitude.

A SPECIAL composition is being smeared on the papier mache cast. This "campo," will have to be sandpapered down to remove all roughness, then more applied.

THIS IS NOT a scantily clad worker in the mannequin factory "punching out" for the night, but a completed mannequin awaiting shipment to a store window. Once arrived, she may no longer use the typical feminine plea that she has "nothing to wear," for she will be attired in the very latest New York styles for winter.

TO A MUTE AUDIENCE of bald heads and busts, resembling a grotesque array of death heads, this hairdresser applies curling tongs to the lacquered cranial shrubbery of this pretty modern version of the Venus de Milo. Latest tonsorial twists, dictated by New York's expert hair stylists, are given to these dummy damsels.

THESE ARTILLERY DEVICES SOFTEN UP THE NAZIS

"SWOOSHING" into the air with the rapidity of lightning are these rockets which guard the shores of England from the much-depleted Luftwaffe. These rocket guns were in action against the German air force long before the world knew of them.

THE FAMOUS "flail tank" consists of a tank chassis fitted with a special anti-mine device, which projects forward of the tank with chains attached that whirl and flail in its path, thus setting off any buried land mines sown within the area.

PLACING a bomb on the support of a Piat gun, which is designed to penetrate a German tank at 115 yards, is this sergeant. When the trigger is pressed the small spigot flies forward up the tail tube of the bomb to explode the cartridge.

The Star Weekly, Toronto, January 6, 1945

THIS BRITISH 75-mm. gun has been mounted on a U.S. chassis, thus making a very effective Allied weapon. It is a wonderful example of the Anglo-American ingenuity when really put to the test.

A REMARKABLE gun is this Smith mortar, a gun which was primarily designed for use against the Germans in the event of an invasion. The wheels form a shield for the gunners when "up-ended" for action.

U.S. PACIFIC FORCES TOKYO-BOUND

TOKYO-BOUND is this giant Superfortress taking off from a strip carved out of the coral of Saipan island. This is just one item in the steadily increasing pressure of air raids that will, in time, wipe Japan's capital off the map, like Berlin.

IN THE SICK BAY of a coast guard-manned transport in the Pacific near the Philippines, this Chinese refugee boy plays checkers with a pharmacist's mate. It is clear there is no race discrimination here. The boy has the best accommodation.

THOUGH IT SEEMS a peaceful scene, with washing on the line, this battery of four "Long Toms," or 155-mm. guns, is busy softening up Leyte Japs prior to an assault by U.S. troops. As usual the Japs are fighting till practically exterminated.

HERE, IN PERSON, is General MacArthur, the man who did one of the greatest come-backs in history. He's scanning the skies shortly after landing on Leyte.

A CIGARETTE helps to make friends in New Guinea. Here a soldier from Florida gives one of the "stone-age men" a light.
